TDCI BOARD OF PHARMACY REVOKES LICENSE OF BROOKS PHARMACY

Nashville, TN.- The Tennessee Board of Pharmacy revoked the pharmacy license for Brooks Pharmacy in Nashville and the individual pharmacist license for Glen C. Brooks for dispensing medications to patients without a prescription.

In March, the Board found that based on Brooks' position of public trust as a community pharmacist, the public health and safety required immediate action, so the licenses were summarily suspended until the next board meeting.

"Consumer Protection is our number one priority and this was a step in the right direction," said the State of Tennessee Department of Commerce and Insurance Commissioner Leslie A. Newman. "This was a team effort and we appreciate the assistance that TBI and Metro Nashville Police gave us in this matter."

A copy of the final order can be found online at www.state.tn.us/commerce.
